

How Will Your Team Handle Today's Contract Complexity and Risk?

Automation and AI can streamline negotiations and ensure insight throughout your process.

Contract negotiations involve multiple versions and stages. After execution, contracts must be carefully managed and retained while expirations and renewals are monitored. This process complexity can lead to information overwhelm, but automation and Artificial Intelligence (AI) can improve routing and centralize information while reducing costs and keeping operations moving.

How do Sys.tm® and the PaperVision® product suite help with contract management?

- Automate processes to ease negotiations.
- Improve data security to keep sensitive details private.
- Use AI to extract key details keeping terms visible and actionable.
- Track contract details in real time to ensure compliance.

Automation and AI Make Contract Management Easier:

Sys.tm gives contract management teams a unified, automated platform that reduces human error, improves information accuracy, and keeps every agreement visible and actionable.

“Only 11% of businesses believe their contract management processes are very effective. This shows that most companies still struggle with unclear ownership, poor contract storage, manual workflows, and inefficient approval processes. ...this makes contract management a key area for digital transformation and operational improvement.”¹

AI-based Contract Intelligence Brings Speed and Accuracy to Contract Management Efforts

Is your organization keeping pace with today's contract complexity and risk? With Sys.tm, you can eliminate repetitive administrative work and free contract management teams to focus on negotiation, risk mitigation, and strategy. By centralizing contract data and automating obligations tracking, Sys.tm reduces compliance risk and prevents missed renewals, penalties, and lost revenue.

Automate Processes to Ease Negotiations.

Are email-based exchanges slowing negotiations and approvals? Sys.tm and PaperVision can automate processes to move information smoothly through negotiations, approvals, and even signatures. You'll never overwrite another's work or lose track of versions again.

Improve Data Security to Keep Sensitive Details Private.

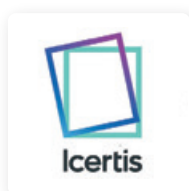

Can you confidently protect sensitive contract details? End-to-end security includes user-based access controls, encryption, multi-factor authentication, detailed audit trails, and more. Whether guarding against internal misuse or external threats, your contracts remain secure and are fully recoverable in case of disaster.

Use AI to Extract Details Keeping Terms Visible and Actionable.

How often do you lose track of key contract details? Many contract management teams rely on manual data entry and scattered storage, leading to outdated records, missing details, and conflicting versions of the same agreement. These gaps slow reviews, increase compliance risk, and make it difficult to trust contract information. Sys.tm uses AI-enabled data extraction to maintain accurate records and a single source of truth.

Track Contract Details in Real Time to Ensure Compliance.

Are missed contract obligations putting your organization at risk? Without real time tracking, teams lose sight of renewal deadlines, compliance requirements, and contract commitments. These blind spots may lead to penalties and lost revenue Sys.tm strengthens oversight with automated monitoring, renewal alerts, and complete audit trails that keep every agreement compliant and on track.

“Contracting is entering a phase where AI adoption is being met with higher expectations for transparency, governance, and measurable outcomes. The organizations that succeed are adopting contract intelligence to bring clarity and control to work – helping teams move faster, adapt earlier, and operate with confidence.”²
